US War Secy Hegseth backs Trump's India-Pak ceasefire claim; outlines Indo-Pacific strategy

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

SINGAPORE, MAY 30: US Secretary of War Pete Hegseth on Saturday credited President Donald Trump with helping broker peace between India and Pakistan, while describing New Delhi as a key partner in Washington's Indo-Pacific strategy.

Speaking at the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore, Hegseth referred to the understanding reached between India and Pakistan after their military confrontation last year and praised Trump's role in easing tensions. "You saw that in the ability of the president to come together on brokering a peace between India and Pakistan, two nuclear capable countries," Hegseth said.

Trump has repeatedly claimed that he helped secure peace between India and Pakistan following a four-day military conflict last year triggered by the terror attack in Jammu and Kashmir's Pahalgam that killed 26 people. India, however, has consistently maintained that the understanding was reached directly between the two countries and has rejected claims of third-party mediation.

The US secretary on Saturday said both India and Pakistan would continue to view each other through the prism of security concerns.

"I think both sides there are going to see understandable threats coming from the other, maybe some of which we see differently, and countries are going to want to develop ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) threats, but we are not pointing a finger, at least from our view right now, at either country and calling them a threat to us," he said.

Hegseth also praised both countries for what he described as their contributions to international stability. "We are grateful for, you know, in each of their lanes, the benefits they have given to peace around the world," he said. Hegseth, in his address, referred to Pakistan's military and political leadership while discussing regional developments. "I mentioned India here, but I very easily could have mentioned Pakistan and the role that the field marshal and the prime minister are playing in peace negotiations," he said. "I think an unexpected development and a true friendship developing there, which I think is important." Pakistan has emerged as the main mediator in the ongoing West Asia conflict, trying to negotiate a peace deal between the US and Iran.

US commander meets with Cuban military officials

WASHINGTON: The top US commander in Latin America met with Cuban military leaders on Friday in a "brief exchange on operational security matters" near the US Navy base in Guantanamo Bay, the latest official to visit the island nation as President Donald Trump ramps up pressure on its leaders. Trump has warned that Cuba "is next" after US military forces captured Venezuela's autocratic leader, Nicolás Maduro, in a January raid. In the months since, the Trump administration has imposed an oil blockade on Cuba, maintained warships in the Caribbean Sea and indicted former Cuban President Raúl Castro on federal charges.

Cuba's Revolutionary Armed Forces said in a statement that both sides viewed "the meeting positively because it addressed security issues along the perimeter separating the military enclave, and they agreed to maintain communication between the two military commands". General Francis Donovan, head of US Southern Command, met with Lieutenant General Roberto Legrá Sotolongo and other Cuban military officials.
